[Retired April 2024]

The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company

After a distinguished career as a Fortune 200 executive, Sherry Neubert is currently redefining the CIO role: as Chief Inspiration Officer with the Symbiotic Collective. Sherry retired from one of the world's most admired companies, The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, in April 2024, with 22 years of service. Spearheading IT for nine years as its Chief Information Officer and Vice President of Information Technology, Sherry played a key role in guiding IT innovation that prepared Goodyear for advancements in the digital era. Today she seeks opportunities to share her corporate experience inspiring excellence in speaking engagements and through corporate board service.

Driven by her passion for developing others and her belief that she had "something more to give," Sherry founded the Symbiotic Collective, a consultancy focused on coaching, strategic advising, and organizational interventions. Instead of managing systems and processes she now applies thought leadership tools to inspiring people and ideas.

Sherry harnesses her unique combination of business acumen and empathetic leadership to coach and advise. She employs Gestalt principles, fostering personal and professional wholeness nurturing the evolution of connected, conscious and complete individuals and organizations.

Throughout her three-decade corporate career and through numerous roles in non-profit board service, including serving as the President of the Akron Community Foundation's Women's Endowment Fund and the Board Chair for Leadership Akron, Sherry has demonstrated her ability to bring about organization-wide change, drive operational excellence, and develop top talent and teams.

A sought-after keynote speaker, Sherry lends her voice to pivotal discussions on the future workplace, coaching for change, and transformative leadership. Her insights are enriched by a robust academic foundation: a Master of Operational Excellence from The Ohio State University, an MBA from Case Western Reserve University, and a Bachelor in Information Systems Management from The University of Akron. Complementing her degrees, she earned coaching certifications from the International Coaching Federation and the Gestalt Institute of Cleveland.

Sherry is a community activist and advocate for diversity, economic empowerment, STEM, and mental health. Her global perspective is shaped by residencies and extensive travel across the Americas, Europe and Asia. Alongside her husband Chuck, she cherishes time with their children and grandchildren. In her sanctuary of calm, you'll find Sherry amidst a collection of favorite shoes and well-thumbed books, reflecting the journey of a life richly lived.
